MAutoDynamicEq is a comprehensive, easy-to-use audio plugin that presents you with an innovative approach to equalization. What's more, its feature-packed interface is a testament to your audio mixing needs, as well as making it the ideal equalizer for ducking and other dynamic processing tasks. This advanced equalizer consists of up to 7 bands with dynamic processing, with up to 7 frequency areas that can be filtered with the aid of up to 7 variable-slope filters. These, as well as resonances, are virtually eliminated. This means you can explore the kind of ducking and expansion that equalizers of previous generations could not offer you. These filters are adjustable and feature input and output curves. The equalizer boasts some of the most advanced sonic processing techniques of today, with compressor, expander, and noise gates being among its most prominent features. Hence, you can explore settings that were never before possible, with these features allowing you to manipulate audio. Further proof of the equalizer's ability to deliver impactful results lies in the fact that it is equipped with an intuitive visualization engine that comprises a sonogram, an analyzer, some spectrum areas, and more.

What's more, the equalizer's feature-packed interface includes the most up-to-date data points, with knobs making it easy to control a multitude of features. This includes bass drum enhancement and de-essing, with both being processed in a click.
