- Mute 02.09.2016 06:16 nig Star Ratings: Gameplay: 8/10 Visuals: 7/10 Music/Sound: 8/10 Liked a lot, will buy again. ----- I enjoyed this game a lot. You meet very powerful enemies and have to fight them in battles. For me it was very satisfying when I finally defeated the enemies that were only killing me and not changing a single health bar. Graphics are guite good, they are mixed with a variety of fantasy characters and environments. The story is great and interesting, you can start at any point and play more with it when you feel like doing so. Sound is good but I find the voice acting guite terrible, everything sounds like it was recorded by a person that was drunk. My only complain is that there were bugs in the beginning (all of them fixed since the release) that the author of this game didn't even bother to mention. So I got angry and I'm not gonna be nice when I do things. If you like action RPGs, you will definitely enjoy this game, I especially liked that the leveling system is very linear, not unlike pokemon. If you don't mind the bugs in the beginning you will find it enjoyable and I recommend it to everyone. Enjoy! - Mute Sunseeker 00.10.2016 14:59 Star Ratings: Gameplay: 9/10 Visuals: 8/10 Music/Sound: 9/10 Not worth the $100. Good story. Graphics. Audio. Part of me wants to like this game, but most of me is disappointed by the sheer amount of bugs, in both the game and the steam store. If you have the urge to buy this for the plot alone, think again. If you were expecting a game like Diablo 3, you will be sorely disappointed. For $100, you would expect a lot more bug fixes and less of the poor controls. Don't bother, some of us get tired of games that only excel in one aspect.

------ I was actually quite surprised by this game. I tried to get out of it but I just couldn't. And I really tried my best. bff6bb2d33

Cash is speaking to BBC Radio London as part of a new charity drive for War Child, which looks at the effect war has on children. War Child's help in Irag has been blighted by the behaviour of some volunteers - in one case, according to charity's head Sir Bob Geldof, a volunteer fired a pistol at wounded children. The wave of enthusiasm that swept around tennis after the 1992 singles at the US Open led, in the months that followed, to a number of references in the media to "Wimbledon fever". So the BBC is reflecting on the fact that Wimbledon 2018 will be staged at the All England Club and "will have a worldwide television audience of some 300 million". Meanwhile, former Wimbledon champion Pat Cash says if there is one place in the world that is well served with quality facilities, that place is No 1 in the world. "Tennis gives the rest of us something to aim at too, and we can all understand that that is probably important," he said. Tennis also gives the rest

The body of Mina-Maryang Wadi, found in a field, was discovered about 350m from where she was last seen alive at her home in Sibaya on Saturday, police said. It is believed she met her death on Saturday afternoon or Sunday morning. A murder investigation has been launched. "Preliminary post-mortem investigations have shown that the little girl's death was a result of a homicide," South African police said in a statement. "The post-mortem process is still continuing and our investigators are working with forensic, canine and photographic experts at the scene, in order to map the exact route the child may have followed to meet her tragic and untimely death." Her family told the BBC that they had last seen her on Saturday afternoon at 5pm. Thabisi Ubiso of the City of Tshwane said Mina-Maryang's father and four brothers had been at the home and now the family was in temporary accommodation while arrangements are made to find a new home for them. The body, which is in an advanced state of decomposition, was found by a resident in a nearby field about 350m from where she disappeared. After initially failing to find
