The former big-money free-agent catcher was supposed to take up a spot on the roster, but he proved too good—starting in every one of the Cubs' first 35 games. Ross is a longtime Cubs fan favorite, but a lot of fans don't know much about him. He spent more than a decade in the majors before leaving a career that included three All-Star appearances and three World Series rings with the Reds behind him. At 35, he's still just a backup, making a career-high, $2.7 million in the process. He hasn't been nearly as good as some of the Cubs' starting catchers, as he's hit .142/.154/.190 in 45 games and is a -5.3 WAR in his 56 at-bats. The Cubs also have a half-dozen catchers with at least 50 plate appearances ahead of him on the depth chart, including starters Victor Caratini, Austin Barnes and Daniel Stumpf. Barring a trade, though, Ross will keep wearing the standard-issue black and orange. He's been one of the best surprises of the season, and if he keeps it up, he should be rewarded with a couple more starting jobs. Lire les infoexcitations pour acrorip 8.26.20.Category Archives: Ownership You can do everything right and still not win. That's the way it goes. Nothing is guaranteed or certain. But if you want it, you've got to take a chance. You've got to put yourself out there. And, if you're lucky, you'll end up with "what you get is what you get and you've got to deal with it." Your first job is to find your inner peace. That is where you discover if you are alone in all of this. If you are not alone, then you'll be okay. I know there's a quote out there about "when life gives you a lemons, make lemonade," but I don't believe that says it all. If you have lost your soul when it comes to money, it may be time to take a leap of faith that the Bible warns about: Surrendering. It may even be time to not only keep your money in an account that is in the name of another person. You don't want to be left alone with money that isn't yours. You can't be sure what the cost is for owning something. Which is why I have to believe that the Bible says to be sure your money is in the name of another person. Look, God is no dummy! He gave us the ten commandments (at least the ones that matter) for a reason. He gave us rules for a reason. And if He gave us a set of rules, He gave us a set of rules for a reason. We can't just put our money anywhere we want to. We've got to follow a set of rules in order to keep our money. It's not just the money that we have invested that's at stake. It's our reputation, too. The people around us also know about our money. That's another reason why we have to be cautious with our personal finances. You never know who you'll come in contact with regarding you and your money. So, what should we do if we are alone? I'm not saying that you give up. And, I'm not saying that you keep your money in an account that is in the name of 6d1f23a050
