musically, though not too bad, as this audience tape from west germany shows. neil had assembled a motley crew of players from various stages in his career: ben keith, nils lofgren, bruce palmer, joe lala, ralph molina, larry cragg, joel bernstein. sound-wise, its actually kind of a precursor to promise of the real and not just because of the bongos. this band can kind of handle everything neil does, from shaggy country rock to blown-out epics. the glorious spirit of crazy horse isnt quite there, but thats probably because of the giant stadiums they were playing. the nils lofgren's album acoustic live was recorded on january 18, 1997 at the barns of wolftap, vienna, virginia. acoustic live is a 9 track live recordings of the fifth concert of the tour mainly devoted to album acoustic live were released in 1997. it features 10 new songs that capture the raw, idiosyncratic rock and roll spirit and lyrical beauty that epitomises a classic neil young crazy horse collaboration. the line-up is: neil young, billy talbot, ralph molina and nils lofgren. nils lofgren, the barns of wolftap, vienna, va:

jazz legend john coltrane, as well as singing and playing the saxophone, was the driving force behind his band. coltrane and the band performed at the philadelphia free jazz festival in september 1961. their concert was broadcast live by television station whyy. this recording was collected in the boxed set "the great concerts of john coltrane and johnny hartman". the box set, titled "the afro-american story", was released by impulse! on april 8, 1966. this recording features coltrane at the keyboard and albert heath on drums. original drums by charlie beal were recorded along with the vocals, but not transferred for this release. if you are into traditional rock, grunge or blues, or if you are a fan of country, punk or alternative folk, you definitely should check out nils lofgren as an acoustic solo artist. in the beginning, nils lofgren created acoustic music only by himself, and he released his first album in 1991, entitled once more with feeling, which only featured him playing the guitar. a couple of years later he released the live album 'acoustic live' in 1997 and this album features 10 songs from that live album and it is also available in the album archive of gauteng rock magazine. this version was recorded on monday, july 26, 2002 at the hollywood bowl in los angeles, california. it includes the following musicians: neil young, nils lofgren, crazy horse, billy talbot, ralph molina, and clem clempson. bruce springsteen, who is absent from this performance, is also featured on the stereo version of this recording. this recording is the in-concert version of "the needle and the damage done" from the album, "time fades away". two additional non-album songs are performed: "here comes the night" and "a song for our times." the cover image is a color shot taken from a previous springsteen video. neil young was signed to reprise records after the release of this album, and it was released in the summer of 2003. 5ec8ef588b
