
Torchlight 2 Prismatic Bolt! ^HOT^

Download

You said Glancing Destruction scales with Crit...but it doesn't actually scale with Crit. It's static. If you're using this, your staff isn't crit, it's bound to Firebrand. Firebrand (tier 16): $(918.4) + 918\% = 63,396$ Firebrand works great as a utility attack with Prismatic Bolt, but doesn't have any use until much later. Ignore this for now. So what I'm confused about is how people say that they ignore Firebrand, but then still have their left click assigned to it. You said if you move from one mob to the next, you would refresh your damage from Firebrand. How do you refresh Firebrand when you have Prismatic Bolt as your left click, but don't have Firebrand assigned? Dude, this was SO good! This was SO good! I read every word! You're awesome! I don't know if I'll ever be this good at a guide. But just know that your guide made a difference to this poor, strange guy. Your guide has made me love Embermages. I didn't even think about having my left click assigned to Prismatic and Triple Bolt. But I'm almost done with the guide and it's convinced me to keep using my left click. I'm now using my left click 98% of the time. This is a pretty comprehensive guide. If you're interested in playing an Embermage and want my impressions on the build, this is the place. 'nuff said. And a well-known quote from the game Immortal Tyrant:

TL respec free for this build, but if you still like it one could swap the initial point to Cataclysm, which is twice as fast and deals more damage, or Prismatic Bolt, which hits for double the damage and deals more burning damage-over-time. What we wanted to focus on was burning damage-over-time. The flame blasts from this skill are both immune and the damage from every hit is improved by Focus and +% fire damage. I don't get why you would respec Free to Magma Mace, and you can't respec Magma Mace to another skill? Thats just poor design choices

Torchlight 2 Prismatic Bolt

the embermage is the most popular torchlight 2 class given their effectiveness in both solo and multiplayer games through the damage they bring to the team. unlike the engineer though the embermage has a greater focus on damage and lacks durability so you'll have to fight carefully across normal and new game plus modes. those that position themselves carefully though and spend the time to acquire the necessary loot and levels will find themselves in control of a powerhouse torchlight 2 character that few builds can match. in this prismatic bolt build guide we will detail the necessary skill and stat point allocations necessary to play the embermage effectively. this skill is pretty self-explanatory and will be your bread and butter as an embermage. also a very good way to increase your damage if played well. fire brand is great with prismatic bolt, since it forces enemies to come closer to you, allowing prismatic bolt to hit them easier. the second major skill for the embermage. prismatic bolt has a whopping 30% chance to freeze enemies for 1.5 seconds (which resets after 1.5 seconds). if this happens, the target is unable to move or attack for the duration. this effect only affects enemies that are within a three-meter radius of you when prismatic bolt hits them, but you should still aim to use it on bosses and other high-dps enemies. it's effective against single-target dps enemies, but it's really only useful as a damage-spam skill against groups of enemies. at this point in the build, you will be using prismatic bolt quite frequently. you can make use of fire brand or rapid fire depending on whether you want to spam with ignite or focus on single-target dps damage. i would recommend using rapid fire and fire brand over rapid fire and ignite, since fire brand is a great early-game skill and allows you to use rapid fire in place of fire brand. 5ec8ef588b
